Running a project without a work breakdown structure is like going to a strange land without a road map. By J Phillips Project management is the management of people, time and costs by an individual or a team to ensure the efficient commencement, progress and conclusion of a project. All these elements apply to construction projects. Project managers in the construction industry are responsible for planning and managing building projects, such as refurbishing a house or building a skyscraper. Their responsibilities include design, procurement, planning authorities, budget, contractors, clients, change, the lifecycle of the project, document management, and other specific areas to ensure that the construction project reaches a conclusion. Whether we are applying project management techniques within our own organization or within that of a client company, the first step requires promoting the value that project management offers. For many people, the idea of a structured process represents change, which is often unwelcome; and it is thought to be overly burdensome and even costly. In reality, successful project management offers important benefits to ensure goals are effectively accomplished for the benefit of the organization.
